To the Citizens of New Hampshire:

The publication of the 1993 Manual for the General Court marks the 53rd volume published biennially in odd-numbered years since 1889. It includes general information about state government and the 1992 election results of the February presidential primary, the September state primary and the November general election.

This edition includes a special section explaining the history of the Hall of Flags located on the first floor of the State House and photos of the Civil War flags used by New Hampshire regiments that have been on display there since 1866.

It also gives special recognition on the next page to three individuals who continue to be re-elected by their constituents and have given many years of dedicated service as elected officials in state government.

William M. Gardner

William M. Gardner
Secretary of State

Bernard A. Streeter, Jr.
Dean of the Executive Council

Councilor Streeter holds the distinction of serving longer as a member of the Executive Council than any other person since the adoption of the state constitution over two centuries ago. A native of Keene and a resident of Nashua, he is serving his twelfth non-consecutive term representing the fifth district.

Clesson J. Blaisdell
Dean of the State Senate

Senator Blaisdell of Keene is currently serving his twelfth non-consecutive two-year term. Upon completion of this term, he will have served twenty-four years in the Senate, a length of time only one previous senator has surpassed since the adoption of our state constitution.

Daniel J. Healy
Dean of the House of Representatives

Representative Healy of Manchester has the distinct honor of having served more years and more terms in the N.H. House of Representatives than any other person in the state's history. Upon completion of this term, his twenty-fourth, he will have served 48 years in the House with all but two years being consecutive. His long service record will be very difficult for anyone to surpass in the years to come.

CONSTITUTION OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

PART FIRST

BILL OF RIGHTS

Article 1. [Equality of Men; Origin and Object of Government.]. All men are born equally free and independent; therefore, all government of right originates from the people, is founded in consent, and instituted for the general good.
June 2, 1784*

[Art.] 2. [Natural Rights.] All men have certain natural, essential, and inherent rights—among which are, the enjoying and defending life and liberty; acquiring, possessing, and protecting, property; and, in a word, of seeking and obtaining happiness. Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by this state on account of race, creed, color, sex or national origin.
June 2, 1784
Amended 1974 adding sentence to prohibit discrimination.

[Art.] 2-a. [The Bearing of Arms.]. All persons have the right to keep and bear arms in defense of themselves, their families, their property and the state.
December 1, 1982

[Art.] 3. [Society, its Organization and Purposes.] When men enter into a state of society, they surrender up some of their natural rights to that society, in order to ensure the protection of others; and, without such an equivalent, the surrender is void.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 4. [Rights of Conscience Unalienable.] Among the natural rights, some are, in their very nature unalienable, because no equivalent can be given or received for them. Of this kind are the Rights of Conscience.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 5. [Religious Freedom Recognized.] Every individual has a natural and unalienable right to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience, and reason; and no subject shall be hurt, molested, or restrained, in his person, liberty, or estate, for worshipping God in the manner and season most agreeable to the dictates of his own conscience; or for his religious profession, sentiments, or persuasion; provided he doth not disturb the public peace or disturb others in their religious worship.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 6. [Morality and Piety.] As morality and piety, rightly grounded on high principles, will give the best and greatest security to government, and will lay, in the hearts of men, the strongest obligations to due subjection; and as the knowledge of these is most likely to be propagated through a society, therefore, the several parishes, bodies, corporate, or religious societies shall at all times have the right of electing their own teachers, and of contracting with them for their support or maintenance, or both. But no person shall ever be compelled to pay towards the support of the schools of any sect or denomination. And every person, denomination or sect shall be equally under the protection of the law; and no subordination of any one sect, denomination or persuasion to another shall ever be established.

June 2, 1784
Amended 1968 to remove obsolete sectarian references.

[Art.] 7. [State Sovereignty.] The people of this state have the sole and exclusive right of governing themselves as a free, sovereign, and independent state; and do, and forever hereafter shall, exercise and enjoy every power, jurisdiction, and right, pertaining thereto, which is not, or may not hereafter be, by them expressly delegated to the United States of America in congress assembled.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 8. [Accountability of Magistrates and Officers; Public's Right to Know.] All power residing originally in, and being derived from, the people, all the magistrates and officers of government are their substitutes and agents, and at all times accountable to them. Government, therefore, should be open, accessible, accountable and responsive. To that end, the public's right of access to governmental proceedings and records shall not be unreasonably restricted.
June 2, 1784
Amended 1976 by providing right of access to governmental proceedings and records.

[Art.] 9. [No Hereditary Office or Place.] No office or place, whatsoever, in government, shall be hereditary—the abilities and integrity requisite in all, not being transmissible to posterity or relations.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 10. [Right of Revolution.] Government being instituted for the common benefit, protection, and security, of the whole community, and not for the private interest or emolument of any one man, family, or class of men; therefore, whenever the ends of government are perverted, and public liberty manifestly endangered, and all other means of redress are ineffectual, the people may, and of right ought to reform the old, or establish a new government. The doctrine of nonresistance against arbitrary power, and oppression, is absurd, slavish, and destructive of the good and happiness of mankind.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 11. [Elections and Elective Franchises.] All elections are to be free, and every inhabitant of the state of 18 years of age and upwards shall have an equal right to vote in any election. Every person shall be considered an inhabitant for the purposes of voting in the town, ward, or unincorporated place where he has his domicile. No person shall have the right to vote under the constitution of this state who has been convicted of treason, bribery or any willful violation of the election laws of this state or of the United States; but the supreme court may, on notice to the attorney general, restore the privilege to vote to any person who may have forfeited it by conviction of such offenses. The general court shall provide by law for voting by qualified voters who at the time of the biennial or state elections, or of the primary elections therefor, or of city elections, or of town elections by official ballot, are absent from the city or town of which they are inhabitants, or who by reason of physical disability are unable to vote in person, in the choice of any officer or officers to be elected or upon any question submitted at such election. Voting registration and polling places shall be easily accessible to all persons including disabled and elderly persons who are otherwise qualified to vote in the choice of any officer or officers to be elected or upon any question submitted at such election. The right to vote shall not be denied to any person because of the nonpayment of any tax. Every inhabitant of the state, having the proper qualifications, has equal right to be elected into office.

June 2, 1784
Amended 1903 to provide that in order to vote or be eligible for office a person must be able to read the English language and to write.
Amended 1912 to prohibit those convicted of treason, bribery or willfull violation of the election laws from voting or holding elective office.
Amended 1942 to provide for absentee voting in general elections.
Amended 1956 to provide for absentee voting in primary elections.
Amended 1968 to provide right to vote not denied because of nonpayment of taxes. Also amended in 1968 to delete an obsolete phrase.
Amended 1976 to reduce voting age to 18.
Amended 1984 to provide accessiblity to all registration and polling places.

[Art.] 12. [Protection and Taxation Reciprocal.] Every member of the community has a right to be protected by it, in the enjoyment of his life, liberty, and property; he is therefore bound to contribute his share in the expense of such protection, and to yield his personal service when necessary. But no part of a man's property shall be taken from him, or applied to public uses, without his own consent, or that of the representative body of the people. Nor are the inhabitants of this state controllable by any other laws than those to which they, or their representative body, have given their consent.
June 2, 1784
Amended 1964 by striking out reference to buying one's way out of military service.

[Art.] 13. [Conscientious Objectors not Compelled to Bear Arms.] No person, who is conscientiously scrupulous about the lawfulness of bearing arms, shall be compelled thereto.
June 2, 1784
Amended 1964 by striking out reference to buying one's way out of military service.

[Art.] 14. [Legal Remedies to be Free, Complete, and Prompt.] Every subject of this state is entitled to a certain remedy, by having recourse to the laws, for all injuries he may receive in his person, property, or character; to obtain right and justice freely, without being obliged to purchase it; completely, and without any denial; promptly, and without delay; conformably to the laws.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 15. [Right of Accused.] No subject shall be held to answer for any crime, or offense, until the same is fully and plainly, substantially and formally, described to him; or be compelled to accuse or furnish evidence against himself. Every subject shall have a right to produce all proofs that may be favorable to himself; to meet the witnesses against him face to face, and to be fully heard in his defense, by himself, and counsel. No subject shall be arrested, imprisoned, despoiled, or deprived of his property, immunities, or privileges, put out of the protection of the law, exiled or deprived of his life, liberty, or estate, but by the judgment of his peers, or the law of the land; provided that, in any proceeding to commit a person acquitted of a criminal charge by reason of insanity, due process shall require that clear and convincing evidence that the person is potentially dangerous to himself or to others and that the person suffers from a mental disorder must be established. Every person held to answer in any crime or offense punishable by deprivation of liberty shall have the right to counsel at the expense of the state if need is shown; this right he is at liberty to waive, but only after the matter has been thoroughly explained by the court.
June 2, 1784
Amended 1966 to provide the right to counsel at state expense if the need is shown.
Amended 1984 reducing legal requirement proof beyond a reasonable doubt to clear and convincing evidence in insanity hearings.

[Art.] 16. [Former Jeopardy; Jury Trial in Capital Cases.] No subject shall be liable to be tried, after an acquittal, for the same crime or offense. Nor shall the legislature make any law that shall subject any person to a capital punishment, (excepting for the government of the army and navy, and the militia in actual service) without trial by jury.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 17. [Venue of Criminal Prosecutions.] In criminal prosecutions, the trial of facts, in the vicinity where they happened, is so essential to the security of the life, liberty and estate of the citizen, that no crime or offense ought to be tried in any other county or judicial district than that in which it is committed; except in any case in any particular county or judicial district, upon motion by the defendant, and after a finding by the court that a fair and impartial trial cannot be had where the offense may be committed, the court shall direct the trial to a county or judicial district in which a fair and impartial trial can be obtained.
June 2, 1784
Amended 1792 to change "assembly" to: legislature.
Amended 1978 so that court at defendant's request may change trial to another county or judicial district.

[Art.] 18. [Penalties to be Proportioned to Offenses; True Design of Punishment.] All penalties ought to be proportioned to the nature of the offense. No wise legislature will affix the same punishment to the crimes of theft, forgery, and the like, which they do to those of murder and treason. Where the same undistinguishing severity is exerted against all offenses, the people are led to forget the real distinction in the crimes themselves, and to commit the most flagrant with as little compunction as they do the lightest offenses. For the same reason a multitude of sanguinary laws is both impolitic and unjust. The true design of all punishments being to reform, not to exterminate mankind.
June 2, 1784
Amended 1792 deleting "those of" after do in 3d sentence and changing "dye" to: offenses.

[Art.] 19. [Searches and Seizures Regulated.] Every subject hath a right to be secure from all unreasonable searches and seizures of his person, his houses, his papers, and all his possessions. Therefore, all warrants to search suspected places, or arrest a person for examination or trial in prosecutions for criminal matters, are contrary to this right, if the cause or foundation of them be not previously supported by oath or affirmation; and if the order, in a warrant to a civil officer, to make search in suspected places, or to arrest one or more suspected persons or to seize their property, be not accompanied with a special designation of the persons or objects of search, arrest, or seizure; and no warrant ought to be issued; but in cases and with the formalities, prescribed by law.
June 2, 1784
Amended 1792 to change order of words.

[Art.] 20. [Jury Trial in Civil Causes.] In all controversies concerning property, and in all suits between two or more persons except those in which another practice is and has been customary and except those in which the value in controversy does not exceed $1,500 and no title to real estate is involved, the parties have a right to a trial by jury. This method of procedure shall be held sacred, unless, in cases* arising on the high seas and in cases relating to mariners' wages, the legislature shall think it necessary hereafter to alter it.

June 2, 1784
Amended in 1877 to prohibit jury trials unless the amount in controversy exceeds $100. Amended in 1960 to increase the amount to $500 before a jury trial may be requested. *"Cases" appears in 1792 parchment copy of constitution. Original constitution had "causes." Amended in 1988 to change $500 to $1,500.

[Art.] 21. [Jurors; Compensation.] In order to reap the fullest advantage of the inestimable privilege of the trial by jury, great care ought to be taken, that none but qualified persons should be appointed to serve; and such ought to be fully compensated for their travel, time and attendance.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 22. [Free Speech; Liberty of the Press.] Free speech and liberty of the press are essential to the security of freedom in a state: They ought, therefore, to be inviolably preserved.
June 2, 1784
Amended 1968 to include free speech.

[Art.] 23. [Retrospective Laws Prohibited.] Retrospective laws are highly injurious, oppressive, and unjust. No such laws, therefore, should be made, either for the decision of civil causes, or the punishment of offenses.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 24. [Militia.] A well regulated militia is the proper, natural, and sure defense, of a state.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 25. [Standing Armies.] Standing armies are dangerous to liberty, and ought not to be raised, or kept up, without the consent of the legislature.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 26. [Military Subject to Civil Power.] In all cases, and at all times, the military ought to be under strict subordination to, and governed by, the civil power.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 27. [Quartering of Soldiers.] No soldier in time of peace, shall be quartered in any house, without the consent of the owner; and in time of war, such quarters ought not to be made but by the civil authorities in a manner ordained by the legislature.
June 2, 1784
Amended in 1980 substituting "authorities" for "magistrate."

[Art.] 28. [Taxes, by Whom Levied.] No subsidy, charge, tax, impost, or duty, shall be established, fixed, laid, or levied, under any pretext whatsoever, without the consent of the people, or their representatives in the legislature, or authority derived from that body.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 28-a. [Mandated Programs.] The state shall not mandate or assign any new, expanded or modified programs or responsibilities to any political subdivision in such a way as to necessitate additional local expenditures by the political subdivision unless such programs or responsibilities are fully funded by the state or unless such programs or responsibilities are approved for funding by a vote of the local legislative body of the political subdivision.
November 28, 1984

[Art.] 29. [Suspension of Laws by Legislature Only.] The power of suspending the laws, or the execution of them, ought never to be exercised but by the legislature, or by authority derived therefrom, to be exercised in such particular cases only as the legislature shall expressly provide for.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 30. [Freedom of Speech.] The freedom of deliberation, speech, and debate, in either house of the legislature, is so essential to the rights of the people, that it cannot be the foundation of any action, complaint, or prosecution, in any other court or place whatsoever.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 31. [Meetings of Legislature, for What Purposes.] The legislature shall assemble for the redress of public grievances and for making such laws as the public good may require.
June 2, 1784
Amended 1792 generally rewording sentence and omitting "for correcting, strengthening and confirming the laws."

[Art.] 32. [Rights of Assembly, Instruction, and Petition.] The people have a right, in an orderly and peaceable manner, to assemble and consult upon the common good, give instructions to their representatives, and to request of the legislative body, by way of petition or remonstrance, redress of the wrongs done them, and of the grievances they suffer.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 33. [Excessive Bail, Fines, and Punishments Prohibited.] No magistrate, or court of law, shall demand excessive bail or sureties, impose excessive fines, or inflict cruel or unusual punishments.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 34. [Martial Law Limited.] No person can, in any case, be subjected to law martial, or to any pains or penalties by virtue of that law, except those employed in the army or navy, and except the militia in actual service, but by authority of the legislature.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 35. [The Judiciary; Tenure of Office, etc.] It is essential to the preservation of the rights of every individual, his life, liberty, property, and character, that there be an impartial interpretation of the laws, and administration of justice. It is the right of every citizen to be tried by judges as impartial as the lot of humanity will admit. It is therefore not only the best policy, but for the security of the rights of the people, that the judges of the supreme judicial court should hold their offices so long as they behave well; subject, however, to such limitations, on account of age, as may be provided by the constitution of the state; and that they should have honorable salaries, ascertained and established by standing laws.
June 2, 1784
Amended 1792 to provide for age limitation as provided by the constitution.

[Art.] 36. [Pensions.] Economy being a most essential virtue in all states, especially in a young one, no pension shall be granted, but in consideration of actual services; and such pensions ought to be granted with great caution, by the legislature, and never for more than one year at a time.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 36-a [Use of Retirement Funds.] The employer contributions certified as payable to the New Hampshire retirement system or any successor system to fund the system's liabilities, as shall be determined by sound actuarial valuation and practice, independent of the executive office, shall be appropriated each fiscal year to the same extent as is certified. All of the assets and proceeds, and income therefrom, of the New Hampshire retirement system and of any and all other retirement systems for public officers and employees operated by the state or by any of its political subdivisions, and of any successor system, and all contributions and payments made to any such system to provide for retirement and related benefits shall be held, invested or disbursed as in trust for the exclusive purpose of providing for such benefits and shall not be encumbered for, or diverted to, any other purposes.

November 28, 1984

[Art.] 37. [Separation of Powers.] In the government of this state, the three essential powers thereof, to wit, the legislative, executive, and judicial, ought to be kept as separate from, and independent of, each other, as the nature of a free government will admit, or as is consistent with that chain of connection that binds the whole fabric of the constitution in one indissoluble bond of union and amity.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 38. [Social Virtues Inculcated.] A frequent recurrence to the fundamental principles of the constitution, and a constant adherence to justice, moderation, temperance, industry, frugality, and all the social virtues, are indispensably necessary to preserve the blessings of liberty and good government; the people ought, therefore, to have a particular regard to all those principles in the choice of their officers and representatives, and they have a right to require of their lawgivers and magistrates, an exact and constant observance of them, in the formation and execution of the laws necessary for the good administration of government.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 39. [Changes in Town and City Charters, Referendum Required.] No law changing the charter or form of government of a particular city or town shall be enacted by the legislature except to become effective upon the approval of the voters of such city or town upon a referendum to be provided for in said law.

The legislature may by general law authorize cities and towns to adopt or amend their charters or forms of government in any way which is not in conflict with general law, provided that such charters or amendments shall become effective only upon the approval of the voters of each such city or town on a referendum.

PART SECOND

FORM OF GOVERNMENT

Article 1. [Name of Body Politic.] The people inhabiting the territory formerly called the province of New Hampshire, do hereby solemnly and mutually agree with each other, to form themselves into a free, sovereign and independent body-politic, or state, by the name of THE STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.
June 2, 1784

GENERAL COURT

[Art.] 2. [Legislature, How Constituted.] The supreme legislative power, within this state, shall be vested in the senate and house of representatives, each of which shall have a negative on the other.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 3. [General Court, When to Meet and Dissolve.] The senate and house shall assemble biennially on the first Wednesday of December for organizational purposes in even numbered years, and shall assemble annually on the first Wednesday following the first Tuesday in January, and at such other times as they may judge necessary; and shall dissolve and be dissolved at 12:01 A.M. on the first Wednesday of December in even numbered years and shall be styled THE GENERAL COURT OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.
June 2, 1784
Amended 1877 changing annual sessions to biennial sessions.
Amended 1889 calling for the legislature to meet in January instead of June.
1966 amendment permitting annual sessions was ruled invalid in Gerber v. King, 107 NH 495.
Amended 1974 to permit organizational meetings in December and the January meeting to be on the first Wednesday after the first Tuesday.
Amended 1984 changing biennial sessions to annual sessions.

[Art.] 4. [Power of General Court to Establish Courts.] The general court (except as otherwise provided by Article 72-a of Part 2) shall forever have full power and authority to erect and constitute judicatories and courts of record, or other courts, to be holden, in the name of the state, for the hearing, trying, and determining, all manner of crimes, offenses, pleas, processes, plaints, action, causes, matters and things whatsoever arising or happening within this state, or between or concerning persons inhabiting or residing, or brought, within the same, whether the same be criminal or civil, or whether the crimes be capital, or not capital, and whether the said pleas be real, personal or mixed, and for the awarding and issuing execution thereon. To which courts and judicatories, are hereby given and granted, full power and authority, from time to time, to administer oaths or affirmations, for the better discovery of truth in any matter in controversy, or depending before them.
June 2, 1784
Amended 1966 to add exception relating to Art. 72-a, Part 2.

[Art.] 5. [Power to Make Laws, Elect Officers, Define Their Powers and Duties, Impose Fines and Assess Taxes; Prohibited from Authorizing Towns to Aid Certain

Corporations.] And farther, full power and authority are hereby given and granted to the said general court, from time to time, to make, ordain, and establish, all manner of wholesome and reasonable orders, laws, statutes, ordinances, directions, and instructions, either with penalties, or without, so as the same be not repugnant or contrary to this constitution, as they may judge for the benefit and welfare of this state, and for the governing and ordering thereof, and of the subjects of the same, for the necessary support and defense of the government thereof, and to name and settle biennially, or provide by fixed laws for the naming and settling, all civil officers within this state, such officers excepted, the election and appointment of whom are hereafter in this form of government otherwise provided for; and to set forth the several duties, powers, and limits, of the several civil and military officers of this state, and the forms of such oaths or affirmations as shall be respectively administered unto them, for the execution of their several offices and places, so as the same be not repugnant or contrary to this constitution; and also to impose fines, mulcts, imprisonments, and other punishments, and to impose and levy proportional and reasonable assessments, rates, and taxes, upon all the inhabitants of, and residents within, the said state; and upon all estates within the same; to be issued and disposed of by warrant, under the hand of the governor of this state for the time being, with the advice and consent of the council, for the public service, in the necessary defense and support of the government of this state, and the protection and preservation of the subjects thereof, according to such acts as are, or shall be, in force within the same; provided that the general court shall not authorize any town to loan or give its money or credit directly or indirectly for the benefit of any corporation having for its object a dividend of profits or in any way aid the same by taking its stocks or bonds. For the purpose of encouraging conservation of the forest resources of the state, the general court may provide for special assessments, rates and taxes on growing wood and timber.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1792 changing "president" to "governor."

Amended 1877 changing "annually" to "biennially." Also amended to prohibit towns and cities from loaning money or credit to corporations.

Amended 1942 to permit a timber tax.

[Art.] 5-a. [Continuity of Government in Case of Enemy Attack.] Notwithstanding any general or special provision of this constitution, the general court, in order to insure continuity of state and local government operations in periods of emergency resulting from disasters caused by enemy attack, shall have the power and the immediate duty to provide for prompt and temporary succession to the powers and duties of public offices, of whatever nature and whether filled by election or appointment, the incumbents of which may become unavailable for carrying on the powers and duties of such offices, and to adopt such other measures as may be necessary and proper for insuring the continuity of governmental operations including but not limited to the financing thereof. In the exercise of the powers hereby conferred the general court shall in all respects conform to the requirements of this constitution except to the extent that in the judgment of the general court so to do would be impracticable or would admit of undue delay.

November 30, 1942

[Art.] 5-b. [Power to Provide for Tax Valuations Based on Use.] The general court may provide for the assessment of any class of real estate at valuations based upon the current use thereof.

November 15, 1968

[Art.] 6. [Valuation and Taxation.] The public charges of government, or any part thereof, may be raised by taxation upon polls, estates, and other classes of property, including franchises and property when passing by will or inheritance; and there shall be a valuation of the estates within the state taken anew once in every five years, at least, and as much oftener as the general court shall order.
June 2, 1784
Amended 1903 to permit taxes on other classes of property including franchises and property passing by inheritances.

[Art.] 6-a. [Use of Certain Revenues Restricted to Highways.] All revenue in excess of the necessary cost of collection and administration accruing to the state from registration fees, operators' licenses, gasoline road tolls or any other special charges or taxes with respect to the operation of motor vehicles or the sale or consumption of motor vehicle fuels shall be appropriated and used exclusively for the construction, reconstruction and maintenance of public highways within this state, including the supervision of traffic thereon and payment of the interest and principal of obligations incurred for said purposes; and no part of such revenues shall, by transfer of funds or otherwise, be diverted to any other purpose whatsoever.
November 29, 1938

[Art.] 6-b. [Use of Lottery Revenues Restricted to Educational Purposes.] All moneys received from a state-run lottery and all the interest received on such moneys shall, after deducting the necessary costs of administration, be appropriated and used exclusively for the school districts of the state. Such moneys shall be used exclusively for the purpose of state aid to education and shall not be transferred or diverted to any other purpose.
November 6, 1990

[Art.] 7. [Members of Legislature Not to Take Fees or Act as Counsel.] No member of the general court shall take fees, be of counsel, or act as advocate, in any cause before either branch of the legislature; and upon due proof thereof, such member shall forfeit his seat in the legislature.
September 5, 1792

[Art.] 8. [Open Sessions of Legislature.] The doors of the galleries, of each house of the legislature, shall be kept open to all persons who behave decently, except when the welfare of the state, in the opinion of either branch, shall require secrecy.
September 5, 1792

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

[Art.] 9. [Representatives Elected Every Second Year; Apportionment of Representatives.] There shall be in the legislature of this state a house of representatives, biennially elected and founded on principles of equality, and representation therein shall be as equal as circumstances will admit. The whole number of representatives to be chosen from the towns, wards, places, and representative districts thereof established hereunder, shall be not less than three hundred seventy-five or more than four hundred. As soon as possible after the convening of the next regular session of the legislature, and at the session in 1971, and every ten years thereafter, the legislature shall make an apportionment of representatives according to the last general census of the inhabitants of the state taken by authority of the United States or of this state. In making such apportionment, no town, ward or place shall be divided nor the boundaries thereof altered.
June 2, 1784

Amended 1877 three times providing for biennial elections; increasing representation from 150 rateable polls to 600; prohibiting towns and wards from being altered so as to increase representation.
Amended 1942 limiting size of House to between 375 and 400.
Amended 1964 providing for equal representation.

[Art.] 9-a. [Legislative Adjustments of Census with Reference to Non-Residents.] The general court shall have the power to provide by statute for making suitable adjustments to the general census of the inhabitants of the state taken by the authority of the United States or of this state on account of non-residents temporarily residing in this state.
November 30, 1960

[Art.] 10. [Representation of Small Towns.] (Repealed)
June 2, 1784. Small towns grouped together to provide one representative for 150 rateable polls. The election meeting was to rotate annually between the towns.
Amended 1877 increasing districts to 600 inhabitants; rotation of meeting changed to biennially.
Repealed in 1889. Provisions incorporated into Art. 11.

[Art.] 11. [Small Towns; Representation by Districts.] When any town, ward, or unincorporated place, according to the last federal decennial census, has less than the number of inhabitants necessary to entitle it to one representative, the legislature shall form those towns, wards, or unincorporated places into representative districts which contain a sufficient number of inhabitants to entitle each district so formed to one or more representatives for the entire district. In forming the districts, the boundaries of towns, wards and unincorporated places shall be preserved and the towns, wards and unincorporated places forming one district shall be reasonably proximate to one another. The legislature shall form the representative districts at its next session after approval of this article by the voters of the state, and thereafter at the regular session following every decennial federal census.
June 2, 1784
Amended 1792 changing General Assembly to General Court.
Amended 1877 changing 150 rateable polls to 600 inhabitants.
Amended 1889 providing that towns of less than 600 should be represented a proportional amount of time instead of being classed as formerly provided in Art. 10.
Amended 1942 deleting reference to 600 and providing that small towns should be represented at least once in every 10 years.
Amended 1964 to permit small towns to be districted for one or more representatives.

[Art.] 11-a. [Division of Town, Ward or Place; Representative Districts.] Notwithstanding Articles 9 and 11, a law providing for an apportionment to form representative districts under Articles 9 and 11 of Part Second may divide a town, ward or unincorporated place into two or more representative districts if such town, ward or place, by referendum requests such division.
November 22, 1978 (Rejected in 1976 as proposed by convention, but adopted in 1978 as proposed by the general court and including both representative and senate districts.)

[Art.] 12. [Biennial Election of Representatives in November.] The members of the house of representatives shall be chosen biennially, in the month of November, and shall be the second branch of the legislature.
June 2, 1784

Amended 1966 removing limitation on adjournment.

[Art.] 20. [Quorum, What Constitutes.] A majority of the members of the house of representatives shall be a quorum for doing business: But when less than two-thirds of the representatives elected shall be present, the assent of two-thirds of those members shall be necessary to render their acts and proceedings valid.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 21. [Privileges of Members of Legislature.] No member of the house of representatives, or senate shall be arrested, or held to bail, on mesne process, during his going to, returning from, or attendance upon, the court.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 22. [House to Elect Speaker and Officers, Settle Rules of Proceedings, and Punish Misconduct.] The house of representatives shall choose their own speaker, appoint their own officers, and settle the rules of proceedings in their own house; and shall be judge of the returns, elections, and qualifications, of its members, as pointed out in this constitution. They shall have authority to punish, by imprisonment, every person who shall be guilty of disrespect to the house, in its presence, by any disorderly and contemptuous behavior, or by threatening, or illtreating, any of its members; or by obstructing its deliberations; every person guilty of a breach of its privileges, in making arrests for debt, or by assaulting any member during his attendance at any session; in assaulting or disturbing any one of its officers in the execution of any order or procedure of the house; in assaulting any witness, or other person, ordered to attend, by and during his attendance of the house; or in rescuing any person arrested by order of the house, knowing them to be such.
June 2, 1784
Amended 1792 by adding that the House shall be judge of the returns, elections, and qualifications of its members.

[Art.] 23. [Senate and Executive Have Like Powers; Imprisonment Limited.] The senate, governor and council, shall have the same powers in like cases; provided, that no imprisonment by either, for any offense, exceeds ten days.
June 2, 1784
Amended 1792 substituting "governor" for "president."

[Art.] 24 [Journals and Laws to be Published; Yeas and Nays; and Protests.] The journals of the proceedings, and all public acts of both houses, of the legislature, shall be printed and published immediately after every adjournment or prorogation; and upon motion made by any one member, duly seconded, the yeas and nays, upon any question, shall be entered, on the journal. And any member of the senate, or house of representatives, shall have a right, on motion made at the time for that purpose to have his protest, or dissent, with the reasons, against any vote, resolve, or bill passed, entered on the journal.

[Art.] 49. [President of Senate, etc., To Act as Governor When Office Vacant; Speaker of House to Act When Office of President of Senate Is also Vacant.] In the event of the death, resignation, removal from office, failure to qualify, physical or mental incapacity, absence from the state, or other incapacity of the governor, the president of the senate, for the time being, shall act as governor until the vacancy is filled or the incapacity is removed; and if the president of the senate, for any of the above-named causes, shall become incapable of performing the duties of governor, the same shall devolve upon the speaker of the house of representatives, for the time being, or in the case of the like incapacity of the speaker, upon the secretary of state, or in case of his like incapacity, upon the state treasurer, each of whom, in that order, shall act as governor, as hereinabove provided, until the vacancy is filled or the incapacity removed. Whenever a vacancy for the duration or remainder of the governor's term of office occurs before the commencement of the last year of such term, a special election for governor shall take place to fill the vacancy, as provided by law. Whenever the speaker of the house acts as governor, he shall act as such only until such time as the vacancy is filled or the incapacity removed in either the office of governor or of president of the senate, whichever occurs first. Whenever either the secretary of state or the treasurer acts as governor, he shall act as such only until such time as the vacancy is filled or the incapacity removed in the offices of governor, of president of the senate or of speaker of the house, whichever occurs first. While acting as governor under this article, the president of the senate, speaker of the house, secretary of state or state treasurer, as the case may be, shall be styled Acting Governor, shall not be required to take an additional oath of office, shall have and exercise all the powers, duties and authorities of, and receive compensation equal to that of the office of governor; and the capacity of each such officer to serve as president of the senate as well as senator, speaker of the house of representatives as well as representative, secretary of state, or state treasurer, as the case may be, or to receive the compensation of such office, shall be suspended only. While the governor or an acting governor is absent from the state on official business, he shall have the power and authority to transact such business.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1792 changing some wording and providing that the senate president acting as governor could not hold his office in the senate.

Amended 1889 providing for the speaker of the house to act as governor.

Amended 1956 providing that the governor while absent from the state has authority to transact such business.

Amended 1968 providing for succession through secretary of state and state treasurer, but only until a new senate president or house speaker is elected.

Amended 1984 rewording section generally to include incapacity, new election if vacancy occurs before last year of the term, compensation of acting governor to equal that of governor, and suspension of senate president acting as a senator or speaker to act as a representative while serving as acting governor.

[Art.] 49-a [Prolonged Failure to Qualify; Vacancy in Office of Governor Due to Physical or Mental Incapacity, etc.] Whenever the governor transmits to the secretary of state and president of the senate his written declaration that he is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office by reason of physical or mental incapacity and until he transmits to them a written declaration to the contrary, the president of the senate, for the time being, shall act as governor as provided in article 49, subject to the succession provisions therein set forth. Whenever it reasonably appears to the attorney general and a majority of the council that the governor is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office by reason of physical or mental incapacity, but the governor is unwilling or unable to transmit his written declaration to such effect as above provided, the attorney general shall file a petition for declaratory judgment in the supreme court requesting a judicial determination of the ability of the governor to discharge the powers and duties of his office. After notice and hearing, the justices of the supreme court shall render such judgment as they find warranted by a preponderance of the evidence; and, if the court holds that the governor is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the president of the senate, for the time being, shall act as governor as provided in article 49, subject to the succession provisions therein set forth, until such time as the disability of the governor is removed or a newly elected governor is inaugurated. Such disability, once determined by the supreme court, may be removed upon petition for declaratory judgment to the supreme court by the governor if the court finds, after notice and hearing, by a preponderance of the evidence that the governor is able to discharge the powers and duties of his office. Whenever such disability of the governor, as determined by his written declaration or by judgment of the supreme court, has continued for a period of 6 months, the general court may, by concurrent resolution adopted by both houses, declare the office of governor vacant. Whenever the governor-elect fails to qualify by reason of physical or mental incapacity or any cause other than death or resignation, for a period of 6 months following the inauguration date established by this constitution, the general court may, by concurrent resolution adopted by both houses, declare the office of governor vacant. The provisions of article 49 shall govern the filling of such vacancy, either by special election or continued service of an acting governor. If the general court is not in session when any such 6-month period expires, the acting governor, upon written request of at least 1/4 of the members of each house, shall convene the general court in special session for the sole purpose of considering and acting on the question whether to declare a vacancy in the office of governor under this article.

November 28, 1984

[Art.] 50. [Governor to Prorogue or Adjourn Legislature, and Call Extra Sessions.] The governor, with advice of council, shall have full power and authority, in the recess of the general court, to prorogue the same from time to time, not exceeding ninety days, in any one recess of said court; and during the sessions of said court, to adjourn or prorogue it to any time the two houses may desire, and to call it together sooner than the time to which it may be adjourned, or prorogued, if the welfare of the state should require the same.

THE SENATE

The senate began under the constitution and first met in 1784. There were at first twelve senators who represented the five counties that then existed, five senators from Rockingham county, two from Strafford, two from Hillsborough, two from Cheshire and one from Grafton. In 1793 senatorial districts were created to take the place of county representation and each district elected one senator. The elections during the early years took place in March and the legislature met in June annually.

The senatorial districting of 1793 was changed over in 1803 and several times subsequently. In 1878 the senate was doubled in size. In 1915 the senators were elected by plurality instead of majority vote. The following is a complete list of the senators from the beginning, showing the name and residence of each member of each senate, arranged in the order of districts from 1793, when the districts were created, and previous to that year, in the order of counties.

UNITED STATES SENATORS FROM NEW HAMPSHIRE

The following is a list of the senators from this state, and the years of service. One of the first senators, John Langdon, was chosen president pro tempore of the first national senate in 1789 and presided over that body until Vice-President John Adams qualified as president of the senate by virtue of his office as vice-president. Senator Langdon was again elected president in the second senate in 1792-3. Senator Samuel Livermore was elected president of the fourth senate in 1795-6 and of the sixth senate in 1799-1800. Senator Daniel Clark was elected president of the thirty-eighth senate in 1963-4. Senator Jacob H. Gallinger was elected president of the sixty-second senate in 1911-13. Senator George H. Moses was elected president pro tempore in 1925, re-elected 1927, 1929, 1931.

Senator Styles Bridges was elected president pro tempore of the eighty-third senate, 1953-1954.

† First election results showed Louis C. Wyman, Manchester, the winner — recount requested by John A. Durkin, Manchester, resulted in favor of Durkin — Appeal to the Ballot Law Commission resulted in favor of Wyman — appeal to the U.S. Senate by Durkin. U.S. Senate sent the appeal back to the State of New Hampshire, declaring a vacancy as of August 8, 1975 and under Chapter 1, Laws of 1975, a special election was held September 16, 1975, in which the final results were:

Durkin.....140,778 votes
Wyman .....113,007 votes

In this period, Norris Cotton, Lebanon, was appointed U.S. Senator from August 8, 1975 until Durkin was sworn into office by the U.S. Senate, September 18, 1975.

*Died in office. Irvin W. Drew, Lancaster, appointed by the Governor to serve until the 1918 November election, when George H. Moses was elected for the unexpired term of Senator Gallinger.

Died in office. Robert W. Upton, Concord, appointed by the Governor to serve until the 1954 November election, when Norris Cotton was elected for the unexpired term.

Died in office. Maurice J. Murphy, Jr., Portsmouth, appointed by the Governor to serve until the 1962 November election, when Thomas J. McIntyre was elected for the unexpired term of Senator Bridges.

*Norris Cotton retired three days before his final term officially ended, and Louis C. Wyman was appointed by Governor Thomson to serve these final three days.

Warren B. Rudman, senator-elect, was appointed U.S. Senator on December 29, 1980 following the resignation of John A. Durkin.

‡ Bob Smith, senator-elect was sworn in as U.S. Senator by U.S. Supreme Court Justice David Souter on December 7, 1990 following the resignation of Gordon J. Humphrey. Senator Humphrey resigned his seat early so that he could be sworn in as State Senator on December 5, 1990 and cast his ballot for senate president.

MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES FROM NEW HAMPSHIRE

Under the constitutional apportionment which provided for a house of representatives in congress, New Hampshire was allotted three seats. The national census of 1790 (first census) increased this to four, the second census of 1800 to five and the third census of 1810 to six seats. The census of 1830 reduced it to five, that of 1840 to four and that of 1850 to three. The census of 1870 reduced it to two, but the seat taken away was restored until the next census of 1880; since then the state has had two representatives.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

Articles 67 and 68 of the second part of the constitution provide for a department of state with a secretary of state who is elected biennially by the legislature and a deputy secretary of state,appointed by the secretary. In the colonial period there was a secretary appointed by the chief executive, but no deputy. During the revolutionary period and under the constitution of 1784 the secretary was chosen by the legislature and given authority to have several deputies, but in 1793 the constitution was changed to provide for a single deputy.

The following is a list of secretaries of state from the beginning, together with the term which each served and a list of deputy secretaries.

New Hampshire's
HALL of FLAGS

Union Standard Bearer

THE SHORT LIFE OF THE HALL OF HEROES

By Frank C. Mevers
State Archivist

In accordance with legislative acts of 1865, 1866, and 1867 the flags carried by New Hampshire regiments in the War of the Rebellion were collected, labeled, and placed in Doric Hall in the state house. Still, there were those who thought that the participants themselves should be honored in perpetuity in a hall of heroes in the state house. With concern that memorabilia of the War were being lost to the ravages of time and civilization, Representative Francis H. Buffum of Winchester offered the following resolution on the floor of the House on Friday, March 12, 1909:

> Resolved, by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring, That a joint special committee, of two senators and three representatives, be appointed, whose duty it shall be to gather, arrange and put in proper condition for preservation and permanent exhibition the war portraits of eminent sons of New Hampshire, together with such flags, trophies and martial souvenirs as may now be stored in the state house.

Following House adoption of the resolution, Speaker Walter W. Scott announced his appointment of Buffum, and fellow Representatives George D. Rand, and Charles Poore to the committee. On March 17th the House sent its resolution to the Senate which voted to concur with the House. President Harry T. Lord thereupon named Senators John A. Edgerly and Benjamin F. Greer to the committee. As House Joint Resolution 89 this was reported out of the Appropriations Committee with recommendation that it pass. The Senate concurred and it became Chapter 205 of the Laws of 1909.

The committee collected photographs with the intention of placing them in the state house to be renovated in accordance with HB 547 going through the General Court to provide $400,000. To spur the activity, HB 123 was introduced on January 18, 1911, by Representative John F. Clough of Manchester calling for the "completion and perpetuation" of the Hall of Heroes. The bill was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

The commitee reported the bill recommending amendment so as to include portraits of men who had fought in all the wars of the nation instead of only the War of the Rebellion. The House immediately accepted the report as amended and sent the bill on to Appropriations which recommended passage on March 29. The Senate concurred so that on April 14 the bill became Chapter 183 of the Laws of 1911, containing $2,000 in appropriations, up to $1,000 of that for reimbursement of expenses incurred by the commission chairman. Governor Robert P.

Bass and the Executive Council acted swiftly. On May 29, 1911, they approved twenty-six members of the commission to be chaired by Francis H. Buffum, the Winchester representative who had introduced the 1909 legislation inaugurating the collection of portraits and memorabilia.

Relationships within the Commission must have been strained. On January 22, 1913, a bill (HB 238) to repeal the 1911 statute thus nullifying the Hall of Heroes Commission was introduced to the House. Chairman Buffum appeared before the Committee on Revision of Statutes to testify against the bill.

On March 19th the committee reported out the bill with a new title and a revised draft which authorized the governor to appoint a committee to oversee termination of the commission's affairs. The bill crossed over to the Senate where on March 26 it was referred to its committee on Revision of Laws. That committee recommended passage, but a move to table the bill held up its third reading until May 15th. On May 20th HB 238 was engrossed and became Chapter 191 of the Laws of 1913.

Again wasting no time the Council, with Governor Samuel D. Felker now presiding, on May 29th appointed the committee of three to close up affairs of the Hall of Heroes Commission: Maitland C. Lamprey of Concord; William H. Trickey of Tilton; and J. W. Bean of Attleboro, Massachusetts. Several records survive: a lengthy bill from F. H. Buffum for supplies and services dated July 28, 1913, a letter to Governor Felker dated December 17, 1913, from M. C. Lamprey as secretary of the committee, and a report to the governor and council of February 10, 1914, from all three committee members.

Lamprey's letter states that Buffum had drawn his $1,000 as allotted in the law and deplores that Buffum's bill of July 28th is requesting yet another $105.53 not allowable in Lamprey's opinion. The committee had 424 pictures from Buffum, but had not been able to get him to explain what work he had done with the pictures to earn his $1,000. Further infuriating to Lamprey was that Buffum's additional expenses were for traveling to appear before legislative committees to testify against the 1913 bill to abolish the Commission: "He was rendering no service to the state, merely looking after his own interests and it is clear to me that the bill cannot be paid."

Lamprey signed with Bean, the committee chairman, and Trickey the closure committee's report of February 10, 1914. They reported that Buffum had not only refused to meet with them but had ignored all their communications. He also refused to send the photographs for seven months after the attorney general had ordered him to do so. When he finally did send 450 photos "of all sorts and sizes," he did so "without any letter of explanation, or data of any kind, to aid the Committee in returning the originals to owners." The committee was further surprised to learn that the commission's photographer, a Mr. Cram, had another 200 photos that Buffum had not acknowledged to the committee. Cram sent the photos to the committee. Of the 600 photos, most of which had been copied up to three or four times, the committee found only about 150 "at all suitable to be placed in any public hall." The committee returned all original photos to owners who could be traced and recommended that the remainders be turned over to the veterans associations at the Weirs, "the Secretaries of the Associations being in touch with all living members, will be better able to dispose of these properly than any one else."

The committee had refused Buffum's bill for $105 because he had already drawn the $1,000 allowed. The Council accepted the report, on April 24, 1914. When the remodeling of the state house was completed Doric Hall became and remains firmly known as the Hall of Flags.

THE FLAG COMMITTEE

By Nancy C. Muller
Director and State Historical Preservation Officer

In the legislative session of 1990, Representatives John Hoar, Jr., and Roland Sallada and Senator Eleanor Podles introduced a bill "to establish a committee to conduct a study and commence conservation and preservation of the flags displayed in the hall of flags in the State House." The bill passed, (Chapter 34:2, Laws of 1990), and the committee began meeting that fall under the chairmanship of Representative Janet Wall. Other members included Representatives Hoar and Sallada, Senators Roger Heath and Wayne King, and State Curator Nancy Muller.

The committee discovered that the Civil War flags were collected immediately after the war and were suspended in city hall in 1865. The following year they were photographed by William H. Kimball and Sons of Concord for a book entitled Battle Flags of the New Hampshire Regiments and First Light Battery and moved to "Doric Hall" (now known as the Hall of Flags) in the State House. In 1867 the Adjutant General was charged with placing the flags "in proper and suitable cases for their better preservation." Four cases were completed by 1868. In 1888 the Adjutant General was authorized to have new cases constructed and erected, although these were not completed until 1900. The Civil War flags remain in these cases, and they were described in the 1901 Manual for the General Court.

In 1951, $8,300.00 was appropriated to construct the two large cases opposite the main entrance of the State House to house flags from World War I and II. While additional funds had also been set aside for "repairing and chemically treating the Civil War flags," these old cases were never opened for fear the flags would "crumble if exposed to air." The cases have remained unopened since that time.

In October of 1989 the Joint Legislative Historical Committee hired two textile conservators from the Textile Conservation Center of the Museum of Textile History in North Andover, Massachusetts, to inspect the flags. While the conservators did not open the cases, they reported that of the 107 flags on display fifteen were in very poor condition. They recommended that all the flags be removed from their staffs and kept in a flat storage. They suggested that those flags in good enough condition could be flat mounted and rotated on display at regular intervals.

The Flag Committee began exploring potential storage places for the flags and began to consider funding sources for the conservation work. In their December, 1990 report to the Governor, Speaker of the House, and President of the Senate, they recommended that the committee be expanded and that its investigations continue.

Legislation passed in 1991 accomplished that (Chapter 170, Laws of 1991). The new committee included two members of the House of Representatives, two from the Senate, the Secretary of State, the Adjutant General or designee, the Commissioner of the Department of Cultural Affairs or designee, the Chairman of the Joint Legislative Historical Committee, the State Curator, the President of the New Hampshire Veteran's Association or designee, and three state residents — an expert in textiles, an expert in New Hampshire military history, and an expert in Civil War history. Under the chairmanship of Representative David Welch, the committee began meeting in September of 1991. After considerable research and thought, the committee has concluded that the technology, space, and funds are inadequate at this time to consider opening the flag cases. Further, most members of the committee feel that a great deal would be lost by removing these original war-torn flags from display. To lessen further environmental damage to the flags, the committee recommends that an ultra-violet screening film be applied to the cases and that they be better sealed.

Photographs of the Civil War flags, as they appeared in 1866, were reproduced from a copy of the Kimball's book owned by the New Hampshire Historical Society. The committee hopes that these photographs can be mounted on a railing in front of the cases so that visitors to the Hall of Flags can compare each flag as it looked after the war with its appearance today. The committee also intends to produce a brochure containing these photographs as well as historical descriptions of each flag.

THE HALL OF FLAGS

By William Marvel

Entering the New Hampshire State House by the front doors, the visitor intent on official business may not notice that the lobby is surrounded by glass cases containing scores of old flags in various stages of decay. Faded, rent, and worn, they hang limply from staffs of oak and ash with no introduction beyond brass plaques bearing strange names and distant dates. Casual passersby would be more likely to glance at the shredded banners and read some of the plaques, sounding out words like Pocotaligo, Bayou Teche, Natchitoches, and Spotsylvania.

Each of those places meant death for someone, for the plaques enumerate the battles of the Civil War where New Hampshire troops saw action, and these standards went with those troops. Most of the fabric behind the glass, at least on the north and south sides of the lobby, has been saturated with the pungent scent of black powder and perforated with lead and iron; some still bears the bloodstains of those who carried the colors.

At the outset of that war the Stars and Stripes meant more to the average citizen, perhaps, than they do today to those who wave them the most, for the flag represented a national unity gained at great cost that was on the verge of being lost: nearly every man who stepped forward to defend that unity remembered someone who had known the nation at its birth, and had seen it through its perilous infancy. And when those men took up arms in that defense, the flag assumed a new, practical purpose, first on the parade ground and then on the battlefield.

In the age of muzzle-loading rifles, military units could deliver concentrated firepower only by standing shoulder-to-shoulder to discharge their weapons, and as those units grew larger the maneuvers necessary to keep them together became more complicated. By 1861 the basic military body was the infantry regiment, composed of ten companies of about a hundred foot soldiers apiece; cavalry and artillery regiments contained a dozen companies, and artillery companies — or batteries — numbered about a hundred and fifty. The colonel of the regiment designated a "color company," with which the color guard marched, and when the regiment shook itself out in line of battle the color company stood at the center. Guidon bearers at the right and left extremeties marked the end of one regiment and the beginning of another in brigade or division formations. All deployments depended on the companies maintaining their sequence, and the colors told the well-drilled soldier exactly where he was.

The flags served the same purpose under fire, and they helped prevent accidental volleys from friendly troops—especially in the first six months of the conflict, before either side adopted a standard uniform: New Hampshire's first three regiments went to war in what came to be called Confederate grey. In the swirl of pitched battle, when blue smoke occluded most of the field and the lines fluttered and broke from casualties and confusion, the flags offered a rallying point for survivors, and clusters of riflemen concentrated about the two principal color bearers — usually a sergeant who carried the United States flag and a corporal with the state standard.

New Hampshire's contribution to Abraham Lincoln's first call for troops was a ninety-day militia regiment. The 1st New Hampshire drew a state and national flag, but no guidons. New Hampshire's adjutant general bought the pair from A.W. Pollard of Court Street, Boston, who provided two "regimental standards" in silk, of single thickness, with lettering in gold paint. Pollard also produced a more expensive double-sided garrison flag with the regimental numeral embroidered on both faces. On its way through New York City late in May of 1861, the regiment encountered a group calling itself the Sons of New Hampshire in New York, which presented the unit with a second silk United States flag. The 1st New Hampshire served on the upper Potomac during most of its brief service, coming home early in August without having seen any action.

The 2nd New Hampshire, which had enlisted for the more usual three-year term, had already departed the state by then and had seen its first battle, at Bull Run Creek in Virginia. The 2nd regiment had also made the acquaintance of the Sons of New Hampshire in New York, who likewise bestowed a national banner on that unit which it carried in that first fight and through most of the conflict, taking it into the Peach Orchard at Gettysburg.

When the 3rd New Hampshire struck off for war it carried the extra flag the 1st Regiment had received in New York. That one was shot to tatters in service along the coast of South Carolina. The regiment received another from the wife of General Egbert Viele, its brigade commander, on Columbus Day, 1861: Mrs. Viele's name is inscribed upon the staff. That one was also returned to Concord in ribbons, while a third was badly battered in the fighting before Richmond. A fourth flag came home with the regiment, and it was on this one that the battles of the command were painted in gold, according to the custom of the day.

Correspondence from flag manufacturers indicates they could not always keep up with demand and frequently ran out of material. Some of the shortage resulted from the sheer intensity of recruiting efforts: hundreds of regiments across the country demanded a stand of colors. But private patriotism strained capacity, as well. The flagmakers' best artisans found themselves besieged with orders for custom-made flags subscribed for by the donations of enthusiastic patrons. On occasion these well-meant gestures of support caused more trouble than they were worth, as was the case with the "California" flag.

Six New Hampshire-born adventurers who had gone west with the Gold Rush commissioned an ornate flag with the combined symbols of their native and adopted states painted on its union and the name of the 1st New Hampshire Infantry embroidered on its field in thick silver thread. The committee forwarded the gift by steamer from San Francisco on August 1, 1861, but that ship had not reached the Isthmus of Panama before the 1st Regiment disbanded. Allen Tenney, Secretary of State for New Hampshire, wrote them of the situation in Late August or early September, advising them that the 2nd and 3rd regiments had also departed for the war, but that the 4th Regiment was just then filling up. The dissolution of the Pony Express that summer made transcontinental mail somewhat slower, and the Californians did not respond until September 18, reasoning that the 4th could have the flag if a substantial number of veterans from the 1st Regiment joined its ranks. Before that letter arrived in Concord the 4th New Hampshire was long gone, equipped with state-supplied flags. The fancy-but-heavy California banner remained in Concord the rest of that year, until a covetous lieutenant in the new 8th New Hampshire Infantry telegraphed to ask if his regiment might not have it. The committee in San Francisco declined, however, determining that whereas "the 2nd regiment had seen hard service and participated in the fight at Bull Run, with honor to themselves, they were deserving the flag as a momento from their California brothers." The 2nd New Hampshire therefore won the prize, but the excellent condition of that color indicates it never saw the field. In fact, it may never have left the state.

At least early in the war, a regiment's flags were presented with appropriate patriotic flair. The governor and adjutant general might be on hand, urging the new soldiers to defend the banner with their lives, and a young lady who had been nominated "daughter of the regiment" often passed the rustling silk to the stalwart sergeant who had been selected for the honor of carrying it. Such a scene transpired at Camp Jackson, two and a half miles southeast of the State House, on October 28, 1861. Colonel Edward E. Cross of Lancaster formed his 5th New Hampshire Infantry on the banks of the Merrimack River to receive the state and U.S. colors in the brisk autumn air, and a few hours later he marched the regiment into town to board cars for the war, where it would have more men killed outright on the battlefield than any other Civil War unit on either side; Cross himself died in the Wheatfield at Gettysburg.

Highly orchestrated presentations disappeared as the war progressed and administrative duties preoccupied the chief executives. By the second year of the conflict regiments more often marched into the State House yard, where the governor would step out for a brief word, hand over the poles, and turn back to his work. The truncated ceremonies did little to diminish the significance of the flags for those who would follow them, though, and carrying one of them remained the greatest honor an enlisted man might seek. The enemy always concentrated his firepower on these prominent emblems, making it perhaps the most dangerous job in the infantry, but into the final grim months of fighting there were those who leaped to save their regiment's falling colors.

The flags of the 9th New Hampshire are perhaps the best example of this extraordinary devotion. When that regiment received its colors from Governor Nathaniel Berry in front of the State House, late in August of 1862, the Stars and Stripes went to Sergeant Edgar A. Densmore, who had earlier enlisted in the 1st New Hampshire at the first call for troops. Densmore, a resident of Nashua, carried the flag at South Mountain and Antietam, but as the regiment charged the stone wall at Fredericksburg a Confederate volley leveled the entire color guard. Densmore was killed, but a lieutenant retrieved his flag, waving it over his head to inspire the discouraged troops; beside the lieutenant stood a sixteen-year-old farm-boy from South Conway, Ned Parsons, who had picked up the state colors, and these two rallied their comrades and led them back into the fray. For their efforts the lieutenant was awarded a Medal of Honor, while Ned Parsons was promoted to corporal and appointed to carry the state flag thereafter. He did so for seventeen months, until Spotsylvania, where a serious wound caused Sergeant James Prindable to drop the national pennon, which Ned Parsons salvaged when the regiment was forced to flee the field. That won him a sergeant's stripes, and for the next eleven weeks he carried Old Glory. When Union miners tunneled under the Confederate works at Petersburg and exploded a key fort, the 9th New Hampshire was one of the first units to charge into the resulting crater, with Ned Parsons in the lead, but Confederate marksmen aimed for the flags and Parsons was shot through the abdomen. While others carried him to the rear to die, his South Conway neighbor, James Brown, picked up the fallen flag and took it through the rest of the battle. Exactly two months later Corporal Brown, who had been promoted and designated to carry the state flag, was surrounded by Confederates at Poplar Springs Church; the Southerners demanded he surrender the blue state banner, but Brown refused, tearing most of it from its pole and ripping it apart rather than let them have it. After the battle the remains of the flag were recovered near his body.

In hand-to-hand encounters like that the flags always drew disproportionate attention. In the same battle of the Crater where Sergeant Parsons was killed, Walter B. Wellons of the 6th Virginia grappled with the color sergeant of the 11th New Hampshire, ripping all but a fragment of the United States flag from the staff when he failed to wrest pole and all from the seargeant's hands. In his report of the battle General Simon Griffin, of Keene, hesitated to admit that any of his regiments had actually lost their flags. "The Thirty-first Maine and Eleventh New Hampshire fought heroically for their colors," he wrote, "tearing them to pieces and breaking the staves in the melee." The two flags remained sufficiently intact, however, that Confederate authorities honored Private Wellons and another Virginian for capturing them both.

At one time or another during that war the colors of New Hampshire regiments were planted on all of the Confederate states except Alabama and Texas. Eleven New Hampshire regiments and the 1st New Hampshire Battery spent all or part of their service fighting Robert E. Lee's army in the eastern theater; outside Charleston harbor, on July 18, 1863, the flags of the 7th New Hampshire fluttered briefly on the ramparts of Battery Wagner, alongside those of the 54th Massachusetts, and the following February they led the march to disaster at Olustee, Florida; the guidons of the 8th New Hampshire (which was serving as cavalry at the time) drew fire at the battle of Sabine Crossroads, on the border of the Lone Star State; the banners of the 11th New Hampshire waved defiantly during the siege of Knoxville, Tennessee; at Cedar Creek, while Phil Sheridan made his famous ride to repair the damage of a surprise attack, the 14th New Hampshire resisted so stubbornly that General Henry Birge rallied his brigade on that regiment's colors.

During the Civil War New Hampshire raised seventeen complete regiments of infantry and part of another. The 2nd through the 14th regiments enlisted for three years, the first seven of them reenlisting in 1864. The 15th, 16th, and 17th regiments were part of the nine-month militia drive in the late summer and autumn of 1862, the 15th and 16th serving in Louisiana through the summer of the next year, but the 17th New Hampshire never grew beyond the first few companies; it did not leave the state as a unit, though when it was disbanded about ninety volunteers were assigned to the 2nd New Hampshire and fought with that regiment at Gettysburg. The 18th New Hampshire sprang into existence in the fall of 1864, when the state faced a substantial draft if enough volunteers did not come forth. These men enlisted for one year instead of three, and saw some minor action around Petersburg in the final fortnight of the war. All the surviving flags of these units stand in the Hall of Flags.

In 1861 the state provided its only field artillery of the war, the 1st New Hampshire Light Battery. The company fought with the Army of the Potomac until Appomattox. The battery owned three guidons, all of them swallowtail pennants: one was cut from the U.S. flag, another in dark blue stood in place of the state emblem, while a third bore the unit designation. Toward the end of the war the national pennant was replaced, and it stands with the others inside the glass cases.

The New Hampshire Battalion of cavalry, also recruited in 1861, was absorbed into the 1st New England Cavalry, most of which hailed from Rhode Island. To the disgust of the Granite Staters in its ranks, that regiment came to be called the 1st Rhode Island Cavalry, and when the original enlistments expired in 1864 the veterans in the four New Hampshire companies came home to raise their own regiment around that nucleus. The 1st New Hampshire Cavalry rode with Sheridan in the Shenendoah Valley and campaigned against "the Grey Ghost," John Mosby. The state and national flags of this unit generally stood in sockets at regimental headquarters while the companies operated independently, so they survived rather well. The guidons that rode through scouts and skirmishes fared worse, and only one came home to Concord in 1865.

New Hampshire's last recruiting effort of the war was a regiment of heavy artillery. Two existing companies at Fort Constitution and Kittery Point served as the core of the 1st New Hampshire Heavy Artillery, but the state had been picked so clean of willing volunteers that the organization could finally be completed only by formally attaching the 1st Battery as a nominal twelfth company. The other eleven companies, each of which enlisted for a single year, spent the last months of the war as garrison troops in the big forts around Washington. Since the units always had the shelter of a roof, its flags saw no weather or wear.

When the regiments came home — frequently with only one-quarter or even one-tenth of the men who had departed with them—they usually arrived at Concord for a brass-band reception and dinner with the governor at the Eagle or one of the capital's other hotels. Afterward, the last ceremony of most veterans' military service consisted of turning the flags back over to the state. By June of 1865 eighty-five flags, guidons, and markers had been deposited at the State House, and Governor Frederick Smyth allowed them to be taken to Concord City Hall for display. During the year they hung there a local photographic firm, Kimball & Sons, recorded the condition of individual flags and photographed them by unit display.

The flags came back to the State House in 1866. For another year they stood in pedestals around the walls of the lobby, open to the air, but in the summer of 1867 veterans in the legislature prodded that body to provide better accommodations. A joint resolution signed by Governor Walter Harriman and House Speaker Simon Griffin — both Civil War generals — called for suitable cases to protect the flags, and the adjutant general's report for 1868 shows they had been housed in four long glass cases. Significantly, that report indicated "Many of the flags are in a sad condition of decay, and will scarcely bear the most delicate handling."

Late in 1888 an executive councilor who had fought with the 3rd New Hampshire lobbied for new and larger cases for the flags, that they might be grouped by unit for easier viewing. It is not clear whether these improvements survived their cost analysis, but a decade later the 1st New Hampshire Infantry returned from its non-combat mobilization during the Spanish-American War and deposited its colors in the lobby, reviving interest in the Hall of Flags. By then the flags had lost their practical purpose on the battlefield, for firearms development had rendered close formations and parade-ground maneuvers obsolete, and the colorful banners quickly became a liability for troops who wished to remain hidden from their enemies. Because no flags had been a part of their combat experience, even the new veterans did not feel the old personal attachment to particular ones, and it required significant patriotic momentum to reduce their symbolic meaning to a cash appropriation. The Spanish War provided that momentum. The legislature appropriated $3,000. for new cases, and in the autumn of 1900 workmen constructed long oak cabinets along the north and south walls of the lobby. Adjutant General Augustus Ayling cautioned them to use "the greatest care" in moving the flags, "as they are so rotten as to almost fall to pieces."

For another half-century the flags remained untouched in their cases. National Guardsmen in a reorganized 1st New Hampshire Infantry served on the Mexican border in 1916 and saw action with the Yankee Division in France in 1918, and those men turned over their flags for display in the hall. During World War II two National Guard units from the Granite

State served overseas—the 197th Field Artillery in the South Pacific and the 172nd Field Artillery in Europe, landing in France a week after D-Day. Their flags, too, went into the hall.

In the midst of the Korean War the legislature raised the then-phenomenal sum of $20,000 "for the purpose of repairing and chemically treating the flags of the Civil War and improving their present containing cabinets." The same resolution provided $8,000. for treating the newer flags and for the construction of cabinets for them, as well.

Since that effort forty year ago, the cases containing the flags have never been opened. Flags representing New Hampshire's contribution to the Korean War and Vietnam found places in remaining nooks of the hall while the old battle standards hung quietly, budging only at a blow to their cases or in the stronger winds of winter. During a renovation late in 1964, workers who misunderstood that the displays were hermetically sealed dared not disturb them "due to fears that the flags would crumble if exposed to the air." One broken pane was replaced, but for another generation they earned no official notice.

In 1989 the legislature appointed a joint committee under Representative Janet Wall to study the restoration and preservation of the flags. The committee conducted an initial conservation report and recommended the inclusion of representatives from the governor, the adjutant general, the Department of Cultural Affairs, and three citizens with expertise in history and textiles. The expanded committee organized on September 17, 1991, and met periodically through the winter, spring and summer under Chairman David Welch. After considering several options for preserving and protecting the Civil War flags, the committee requested and received an appropriation for reproducing the 1866 Kimball & Sons photographs of the flags, most of which seem not to have deteriorated since their return from the war. Working with Secretary of State William Gardner and the New Hampshire Historical Society, which held the original bound volume of photographs, the committee had three copies made, one set of which is intended for mounting on railings in front of the flag cases, both for protection and historical interpretation. The committee continues to meet periodically to discuss further conservation methods.

While the 3rd New Hampshire lay in its trenches outside Richmond late in 1864, Captain Henry Dow decided the unit's battle flag had seen all the service it could bear. As acting commander of the depleted regiment he shipped the tattered standard back to the adjutant general in Concord. With it he sent a request:

"I most sincerely desire that this flag may be preserved by the State authorities," he wrote, "where in future years its defenders may have the pleasure of looking upon it, remembering their service in defence of our glorious Nation's honor." Henry Dow and his comrades are all gone now, but New Hampshire still strives to honor his wishes.

1st N.H. Infantry: Served from May 7 to August 9, 1861, campaigning without seeing action on the upper Potomac River, in Maryland and what is now West Virginia.

2nd N.H. Infantry: Fought in most of the battles of the Army of the Potomac, from First Bull Run to the capture of Richmond. Not mustered out until December 19, 1865, it served longer than any other unit from this state.

Third Regiment N. H. Vol. Infantry.

3rd N.H. Infantry: Operated on the coast of South Carolina, principally against Charleston, until moving to the Virginia theater early in 1864. Took part in the siege of Richmond and Petersburg, and in the amphibious assault on Fort Fisher, North Carolina, in 1865.

4th N.H. Infantry: Followed the fortunes of the 3rd Infantry in South Carolina, Virginia, and North Carolina. The regiment's worst day was May 16, 1864, at Drewry's Bluff, below Richmond. One company that entered that fight with 42 men came out with only 14.

5th N.H. Infantry: The state's best-known unit. Served with the Army of the Potomac from the autumn of 1861 until Appomattox except for a brief stint as prison guards at Point Lookout, Maryland. Lost more men killed in battle — 282 — than any other regiment on either side.

6th N.H. Infantry: Part of Burnside's invasion of North Carolina in 1861, the 6th also fought at Second Bull Run and in the Maryland campaign of 1862; it did garrison duty in Kentucky, served in the Jackson, Mississippi, campaign after the fall of Vicksburg, and returned to Virginia for the final year of the war.

7th N.H. Infantry: After seventeen months of fever-plagued duty on the coasts of Florida and South Carolina, this regiment took part in the bloody assault on Battery Wagner, losing more men than the black troops of the 54th Massachusetts who won their reputation there: the 7th Infantry buried 11 officers and 66 enlisted men after that disaster. The regiment suffered similarly in the Union debacle at Olustee, Florida, in February of 1864. Like the 3rd and 4th regiments, the 7th spent the rest of 1864 operating against Richmond and Petersburg, and the first half of 1865 in North Carolina.

Eighth Regiment N. H. Vol. Infantry.

8th N.H. Infantry: The 8th New Hampshire saw most of its four years of service in Louisiana, where 331 of its members died — only 99 of them in battle, and most of those in the Port Hudson campaign, on May 27 and June 14, 1863. From December of 1863 until May of 1864 the regiment served on horseback, and was almost permanently transformed into the 2nd New Hampshire Cavalry, but after the illfated Red River Campaign the regiment reverted to infantry again.

9th N.H. Infantry: The first regiment raised in the state in 1862, the 9th went into action at South Mountain, Maryland, only twenty days after leaving Concord. The regiment also fought at Antietam, Fredericksburg, and in all of U. S. Grant's battles in Virginia in 1864. On three occasions that year — at Spotsylvania on May 12, the Crater, on July 30, and Poplar Springs Church on September 30 — the 9th New Hampshire lost half of the men it took into action. At Poplar Springs Church the color bearer was killed while attempting to shred the regiment's state flag rather than surrender it.

10th N.H. Infantry: The 10th New Hampshire reached the Army of the Potomac late in 1862 and fought at Fredericksburg, but through most of 1863 and early 1864 the regiment was assigned to routine garrison duty in southeastern Virginia. Its greatest day came at Cold Harbor on June 3, 1864, where the 10th served as skirmishers and carried a portion of the enemy's trenchline.

11th N.H. Infantry: From Fredericksburg the 11th Regiment served alongside the 9th, sharing the misery of the Mississippi campaign and the bloody fighting in Virginia in 1864. The 11th preceded the 9th to Knoxville, however, and helped defend that city in the siege of late 1863. At the battle of the Crater most of this regiment's U.S. flag was torn from its staff by a Confederate soldier.

12th N.H. Infantry: The 12th New Hampshire's real introduction to the war came at Chancellorsville, where half the men in the regiment were killed, wounded, or captured. Two months later the survivors were roughly handled in the Peach Orchard at Gettysburg, and after a winter's relative ease as prison guards the veterans were reattached to Grant's army and participated in the deadly assault at Cold Harbor, where the depleted regiment lost another 63 men killed in a single assault that lasted but a few minutes.

Thirteenth Regiment N. H. Vol. Infantry.

13th N.H. Infantry: This unit charged the stone wall at Fredericksburg only four days after it reached the Army of the Potomac. For more than a year afterward it served in the Virginia Tidewater region, skirmishing occasionally, returning to the main army in the spring of 1864. For the final year of the war the regiment aided in the siege of Richmond, and some of its officers claim to have led the first Union troops into that city when it fell.

14th N.H. Infantry: This was the last three-year regiment raised in New Hampshire. From the fall of 1862 until early 1864 the 14th performed bloodless garrison duty in and around Washington, and it sailed to Louisiana and back on a foiled mission during the first half of that year. Not until the battle of Winchester did the regiment see action, losing heavily there on September 19, 1864. Exactly one month later the regiment fought its only battle, at Cedar Creek.

Fifteenth Regiment N. H. Vol. Infantry

15 N.H. Infantry: The first of three regiments begun under a call for nine-month militia, the 15th New Hampshire spent its entire term in Louisiana, taking part in the successful (but, as it turned out, unnecessary) siege of Port Hudson. The regiment came back to Concord in August of 1863, leaving behind 30 comrades who had been killed in the siege and 115 who had succumbed to disease.

Sixteenth Regiment N. H. Vol. Infantry.

16th N.H. Infantry: Likewise raised in the fall of 1862 for nine months' service, the 16th New Hampshire also sailed to Louisiana for its entire term. Though the regiment never saw a single skirmish, a full thirty percent of its men died of disease, either while in uniform or shortly after coming home.

17th N.H. Infantry: The 17th Regiment never completed its organization, and of its recruits only a few dozen volunteers left the state to serve out their last months of service with the 2nd New Hampshire. No flags were ever issued.

Eighteenth Regiment N. H. Vol. Infantry.

18th N.H. Infantry: Raised for one year of service in the fall of 1864, six companies of the 18th New Hampshire spent the last months of the war on engineer duty behind the lines at Petersburg, Virginia. Three more companies joined the regiment by spring — one of them three days after Lee's surrender — and the regiment saw a little action in the final week of the Petersburg siege.

Ist N.H. Cavalry: Raised from a nucleus of four Granite State companies in the Ist Rhode Island Cavalry, the first battalions of the Ist New Hampshire started for the front in the spring of 1864. Until August the unit operated in cooperation with the Army of the Potomac, but that month the final companies joined the regiment and it followed Phil Sheridan into the Shenandoah Valley. It remained in northern Virginia and Maryland through the rest of the war, losing a number of men to John Mosby and other guerrilla forces.

First Regiment N. H. Vol. Hy Artillery.

1st N.H. Heavy Artillery: Recruited in the autumn of 1864 for one year, the 1st Heavy Artillery ultimately tallied 1857 men on its rolls — the last and largest regiment New Hampshire sent to the war. The regiment garrisoned forts and did picket duty on the perimeter of Washington during the final winter of the conflict, and although it never saw a shot fired in anger it lost nearly three dozen men to disease during its short and relatively agreeable service.

Ist N.H. Battery: The New Hampshire Light Battery was overrun in its first fight, at Second Bull Run, losing its commander and one gun to the Confederates. The battery took a severe beating at Fredericksburg, and helped repel Pickett's Charge at Gettysburg. The Rochester battery of the New Hampshire National Guard claims descent from this unit, the veterans of which started their own militia company a couple of years after the war ended.

RECOUNTS AFTER THE PRIMARY

After the Primary, seven requests for recounts were received — four were Republican and three were Democratic.

The recount requested for State Senate District No. 12 was called off before it was completed. There was no change in the nominees as a result of the other six recounts.

Below, in the first column are the figures as officially returned to the Secretary of State. The second column contains the recount figures. The nominees are indicated by asterisks.

GENERAL ELECTION — 1992

The General Election was held November 3, 1992. In the following summary, the full name, residence, party designation and total number of votes are given for the candidates. In the tables beyond only the last name and party designation appear. Republican is designated by the letter r; Democratic by the letter d; and Libertarian by the letter l. Ind indicates independent, n.a. indicates new alliance and n.l. indicates natural law.

In each contest the person or persons, if more than one, receiving the largest number of votes are elected.

RECOUNTS AFTER THE GENERAL ELECTION

Nine requests for recounts were received after the general election, eight for State Representative and one for State Senate. Two recounts for State Representative resulted in a change of winners — Merrimack County District No. 16 and Rockingham County District No. 22. A tie was the result of the recount in Hillsborough District No. 24.

Appeals were made to the Ballot Law Commission after the recounts were completed in State Representative races in Hillsborough County District No. 24, Merrimack County District No. 13, and Merrimack County District No. 16. There were no changes in winners as a result of the appeals.

Below, in the first column are the figures as officially returned to the Secretary of State. The second column contains the recount figures and the third column the Ballot Law Commission figures. The persons elected are designated by asterisks.

New Hampshire Joint Board of Licensure for Engineers, Architects, Land Surveyors, Natural Scientists, and Foresters

57 Regional Drive, Concord, 271-2219

I. Board of Engineers consists of five members: 4 engineers and one public member. Each engineer shall be a citizen of the U.S. and a resident of N.H.; have been engaged in the practice of engineering as his chief means of livelihood for at least 10 years; and have been in responsible charge of important engineering work for at least 5 years, including responsible charge of the teaching of the profession.

II. Board of Architects consists of five members: 4 architects and one public member. Each architect shall be a citizen of the U.S. and a resident of N.H.; and have been engaged in the practice of architecture as his chief means of livelihood for at least 10 years; and have been in responsible charge of important architectural work for at least 5 years, including responsible charge of the teaching of the profession.

III. Board of Licensure for Land Surveyors consists of five members: 4 land surveyors and one public member. Each land surveyor shall be a resident of N.H.; have been engaged in the practice of land surveying in N.H. for at least 6 years and have been in charge of surveying work, which may include the teaching of surveying.

All appointments to the Board of Engineers, Architects or Land Surveyors shall be made by the governor with approval of the council for a term of five years, and no member shall be appointed to more than 2 consecutive terms. Each board biennially elects a chairman.

IV. Board of Natural Scientists shall consist of five persons: four professional soil scientists and one public member. Each member shall be a citizen of the U.S. and shall have been a resident of N.H. for at least 5 years preceding appointment. Each soil scientist member shall have actively practiced soil science for at least 6 years and shall have held a responsible position in charge of such work for at least 2 years prior to his appointment, which may include the teaching of soil science. All members appointed by governor and council for a term of five-years. No more than one member's term may expire in any one calendar year. Appointments for terms of less than 5 years may be made to comply with this limitation. Initial members shall meet the educational requirements of RSA 310-A:84, I(a). No member shall be eligible to serve more than 2 full consecutive terms, provided that for this purpose only a period actually served which exceeds 1/2 of the five-year term shall be deemed a full term. Upon expiration of a member's term, he shall serve until his successor is appointed and qualified. Successor's term shall be five-years from date of expiration of predecessor's appointment, regardless of the date of his appointment. Vacancies shall be filled for the unexpired term.

The public member of each board shall be a person who is not, and never was a member of the engineering/architectural/land surveying/soil science profession or the spouse of any such person, and who does not and never has had, a material financial interest in either the provision of such professional services or an activity directly related thereto, including the representation of the board or profession for a fee at any time during the 5 years preceding appointment. RSA 310-A

V. Board of Forester's shall consist of seven persons: four of whom shall be foresters and three public members. Each member shall be a citizen of the U.S. and shall have been a resident of N.H. for at least 5 years preceding appointments. Each forestry representative shall have actively practiced the profession of forestry for at least 6 years prior to appointment, 2 years of which must have been a responsible position in charge of such work. Of the forester members; a) one shall be the director, division of forests and lands, b) one shall be an industrial forester, c) one shall be a private forester, and d) one shall be a forester from the public sector. Two of the public members shall be forest landowners actively engaged in forest management, but not otherwise connected with the forestry profession. The public members shall be persons who are not, and never have been, members of the forestry profession, nor relatives of such a person, and who do not have and never have had a material financial interest in either the provision of forestry services, or in an activity directly related to forestry. All members appointed by governor and council for a term of five-years. Initial appointments to be as follows: 2 for five-years, 2 for four-years, 1 for three-years, 1 for two-years and 1 for one-year. (Ch. 166, 1990)
